Yangon City Golf Resort

Yangon City Golf Resort consists of two 18-hole courses the first 18 known as Silver (Ngwe Thaw Tar) was opened in 1994 spread over 7000 yards and the second 18 known as Pondi (Myakantha) was opened in 1996 spread over 6208 yards. Situated 40 minutes' drive north from downtown Yangon it was designed by Han Golf Master himself the Executive Chairman of the Asian Golf Tour.

The two 18-hole courses are quite unique to each other. Silver is spread across a low flat plain with generous, wide fairways and greens and is fantastic for players of different skill levels. Pondi is tougher, with a narrower fairways and snug greens which require accurate shots to score well. The golf course is well-known for hosting the Asian PGA Tour in 1998 and 1999.

With carefully and professionally maintained greens and fairways it's certainly one of the better courses in the area and a Course not to miss out if you're travelling through the area. Due to continuous upgrading of the course now members can play all year through and fairway softness problems are negligible.
